

to end prior to the existing rule's expiration date, the effective result would be identical to having the expiration date removed immediately. Because an immediate effective date will sustain security, reduce the opportunity for legal and public confusion, and have no negative consequences, good cause exists for making this rule effective immediately as allowed by 5 U.S.C. 553(d)(3).

Background

The Secretary is delegating to the Maritime Administrator the authority under section 109 of the Maritime Transportation Security Act of 2002, Public Law 107-295, 116 Stat. 2064, at 2090 to develop standards and curriculum to allow for the training and certification of maritime security professionals. The Maritime Administration (MARAD) has the expertise and staff to develop and implement a program for the training and certification of maritime security professionals within its area of responsibility and to make funding decisions in accordance with the statutory requirements. The standards for training and certification established shall include training and certification of maritime security professionals in accordance with accepted law enforcement and security guidelines, policies, and procedures; training of students and instructors in all aspects of prevention, detection, investigation, and reporting of criminal activities in the international maritime environment; and the provision of off-site training and certification courses and certified personnel at United States and foreign ports used by U. S.-flagged vessels, or by foreign-flagged vessels with U.S. citizens as passengers or crew members, to develop and enhance security awareness and practices. MARAD may make the training opportunities provided under this section available to any Federal, State, local, and private law enforcement or maritime security personnel in the United States or to personnel employed in foreign ports used by vessels with United States citizens as passengers or crewmembers.

Since this amendment relates to Departmental organization, procedure, and practice, notice and comment on it are unnecessary under 5 U.S.C. 553(b). Efficient execution of section 109 is instrumental to the timely development and implementation of training for maritime security professionals. Thus, the Secretary finds good cause under 5 U.S.C. 553(d)(3) for this final rule to be effective on the date of publication in the Federal Register.
