

either $.01 or a percentage of the PACE Quote when the order is received.⁶ Specialists may choose to offer API in each individual specialty security. If a specialist offers API in an individual security, then the specialist must offer it to all customers and all eligible market orders in that security. Participation in the API program and PACE is voluntary.

Currently, API is not available to certain buy orders if the execution price of those buy orders would be on a minus or zero-minus tick.⁷ The Exchange has proposed to amend Supplementary Material .07 to Phlx Rule 229 to modify the Exchange's API program to allow specialists to choose to improve buy orders in securities that are exempted from or otherwise not subject to the "tick" requirements of the Short Sale Rule.⁸

III. Discussion

After careful review, the Commission finds that the proposed rule change is consistent with the requirements of the Act and the rules and regulations thereunder applicable to a national securities exchange.⁹ In particular, the Commission finds that the proposed rule change is consistent with section 6(b)(5) of the Act,¹⁰ which requires, among other things, that the rules of an exchange be designed to promote just and equitable principles of trade, to remove impediments to and perfect the mechanism of a free and open market, and to protect investors and the public interest. The Commission believes that expanding the types of securities that may receive API to include those securities that are not subject to the "tick" requirements of the Short Sale Rule should allow customers to receive more opportunities for price improvement.

The Exchange has stated that it will issue a regulatory circular informing its members which securities are currently exempt from the "tick" requirements of the Short Sale Rule and thus available for API under the rule change. At this time, securities that trade on the Exchange that the Commission has exempted from the "tick" requirements of the Short Sale Rule include

Exchange-Traded Funds ("ETFs")¹¹ and certain Trust Issued Receipts ("TIRs").¹²

IV. Conclusion

For the foregoing reasons, the Commission finds that the proposed rule change is consistent with the requirements of the Act and rules and regulations thereunder.

It is therefore ordered, pursuant to section 19(b)(2) of the Act,¹³ that the proposed rule change (SR-Phlx-2003-25) is approved.

For the Commission, by the Division of Market Regulation, pursuant to delegated authority.¹⁴

Assistant Secretary.
